

BIO OF EDWARD ALLEN KARR

Edward Allen Karr is the pen name of Edward Sechkar—easier to pronounce, and hopefully easier to remember! He lives in Ohio, and he's a mechanical engineer by day, spending his time designing stuff. Very serious work...and very different from the world of fiction.

He spends a lot of his time (even when he should be asleep!) thinking about his next book. Or chapter or scene. Or even the absolute best word to use in one particular sentence. Writing his first novel, "Lin Finity And Her Mayhem Rising," began as a half-hearted fun thing to try. Two months later, 70,000 words had appeared, and there was no turning back.

When he writes, his imagination leads him places he never would have anticipated, and even he is surprised as the story unfolds. He's learned that the characters mostly decide what's going on, and the best he can do is get out of their way...but still remain close enough to reach the keyboard.