Below the Bay

Risk and the Killers – Book One

The Kildare Killers, Marilyn and Sophia, didn't want to die in that smoke-filled chamber deep below the burning mansion in Beverly Hills. Neither did the lion, and Risk knew the only way to save all of them. It would take intense sex. And death. One of them would have to die.

The escape plan worked, and they awoke in a gondola suspended from a giant balloon floating above a dark city surrounded by fires. The girls tell Risk that they hate it there and want to go home. He reminds them what it took to get there. When he finishes his mission, if they still want to leave, their exit plan will have to be the same.

The Killers claim that they can survive anything that world can deliver. They are killers, after all. Risk knows better. He's seen many of the devious traps and dangers lurking in that horrific place, and he knows how easily any one of them can become a lost victim in the deadly lands below the San Francisco Bay.
